LUPITA
NYONG'O

Where? New York.

What She's Wearing:
A chill-busting pea-green coat (complete with navy biker vest detail), teamed with drainpipe jeans, trademark fedora and a stylish carry-all that gives the winter get-up an instant colour hit.

Senior Fashion News
Writer Maxine

Who's That Girl?

Ali Tate, 24, was a finalist in our Look Curvy Model Competition and is now our cover star! See, dreams can come true 'I had no idea that entering Look's competition would change my life. Previously, I'd never considered modelling; I always felt insecure about my body. But getting to the final really boosted my confidence. I quit my old job and began to focus on my career – and now I feel happy and secure about the way I look, plus I've worked with some of the world's best-known brands and photographers, and even done a nude shoot with Rankin. I really have Look to thank for that. I have always appreciated that Look features women of all sizes, so I'm honoured to be on the cover. It's a proud moment!'

Lost Ink
at ASOS
£38

My New Shoe Secret

I've just discovered Lost Ink – one of the latest labels to hit ASOS – and their seriously good footwear selection. These rose-gold sling-back flats are way more directional than you'd expect for the £38 price tag, and will work with pretty much everything in my wardrobe. Plus, they'll see me right through to next season. I'd call that a pretty savvy investment.

The Coat Of The Season

Suede and sheepskin are the textures of AW15, and generally they don't come cheap. But at under £200, Oasis's tan coat is way more purse-friendly than some offerings – and every bit as luxe. I'll be wearing mine all winter with denim flares and patent snakeskin boots. Lucy

I've just snapped up this quirky number for a winter wedding – the metallic gold finish of the polka dots really ups the glam factor – but styled up with a polo neck underneath, it'll work as a polished day piece, too. Topshop's Showstopping Frock

I'm a sucker for hot pink and Topshop Boutique's super shiny Bardot number is everything I've been wishing for this festive season. I'll be going all out and pairing it with a pale pink feather clutch and matching shoes, but it would look fab with chic black courts and a biker jacket, too.

The high street has gone crazy for in-between-season 'resort' collections this week, meaning you can get a brand-new look before Christmas

First things first, let's explain what a resort collection is. Also known as 'cruise', it's the name given to the pre-collections that arrive earlier than the major spring/summer or autumn/winter ranges, and used to be the preserve of catwalk designers – until now.

Seeing how successful these in-between drops are for the big names, the high street is following suit, with transitional capsule collections appearing among the party-season glitz and winter coats. Following on from the pre-AW15 collections showcased by a few high-street stores, resort is taking off, with even more shops getting in on the action. From Topshop Unique, Whistles and Banana Republic to Zara and Warehouse, the rails of our wardrobe regulars are filling up fast with pieces that you'll wear now and right through 2016. Here's the lowdown on the hottest ranges landing this week...

Banana Republic's Could-Be-Catwalk Designs

It's official – the whole Look fashion team has gone gaga over Banana Republic's resort collection. From sequin blazers to super-soft knits and gorgeous outerwear, each piece looks like it could have come straight off the J Crew catwalk. 'It's the ultimate fusion of day and night dressing,' explains Look's Head of Fashion Content, Lucy Felton. 'It's all in how you style these souped-up basics – see the blazer, jeans and striped shirt combo for instant inspo.'

Warehouse's Botanical Drop

Florals are a year-round wardrobe winner, and Warehouse has come up with such a standout new botanical print, it's created a whole capsule collection around it. As well as this beautiful frock, there's a silk blouse, a T-shirt dress, a shorter shift and a T-shirt in the small but perfectly formed range. The black background keeps the pretty blooms cold-weather friendly.

Ted Baker's Spring-Ready Hits

Let Ted Baker inject some early sunshine into your look with statement patterns and prints that are guaranteed to pep up any outfit. Look's Senior Fashion News Writer Maxine Eggenberger is already hand-selecting her picks for upcoming weddings: 'This collection is my go-to for all those springtime weddings I have packed into my 2016 diary,' she says.

Zara's Retro Cool

First up, let's talk about that silky embroidered bomber. These cover-ups are going to be huge come spring 2016 after designers such as Gucci, Saint Laurent and Markus Lupfer sent them down the runway. So believe us when we say it's worth investing in one early. Then there's slinky midi skirts, swinging 60s prints on cute pinafores and chunky knits that will slot seamlessly into your existing wardrobe.

Whistles' Power Prints

Popping colours and punchy patterns reign supreme here. Bold, overblown picnic checks pay more than a little homage to Victoria Beckham and Stella Jean's SS16 collections, and those directional shapes make for a fresh update on the co-ord. There's also denim, chic dresses and sharp separates to overhaul your work-to-weekend wardrobe.

Topshop Unique's Celeb-Loved Collection

Alexa Chung, Jourdan Dunn, Suki Waterhouse – there isn't an A-list fashionista worth her salt without a piece of Topshop Unique's resort collection in her wardrobe. 'It's a day-to-night dream,' says Look's Fashion News Editor, Gemma Yates. 'The styling possibilities of key staples such as the denim button-down pencil are endless.' The printed blouses are workwear hero buys, but it's the floral maxi dress that we reckon savvy stylistas will be snapping up.

Light-Lining: The Genius Make-Up Trick Celebs Love

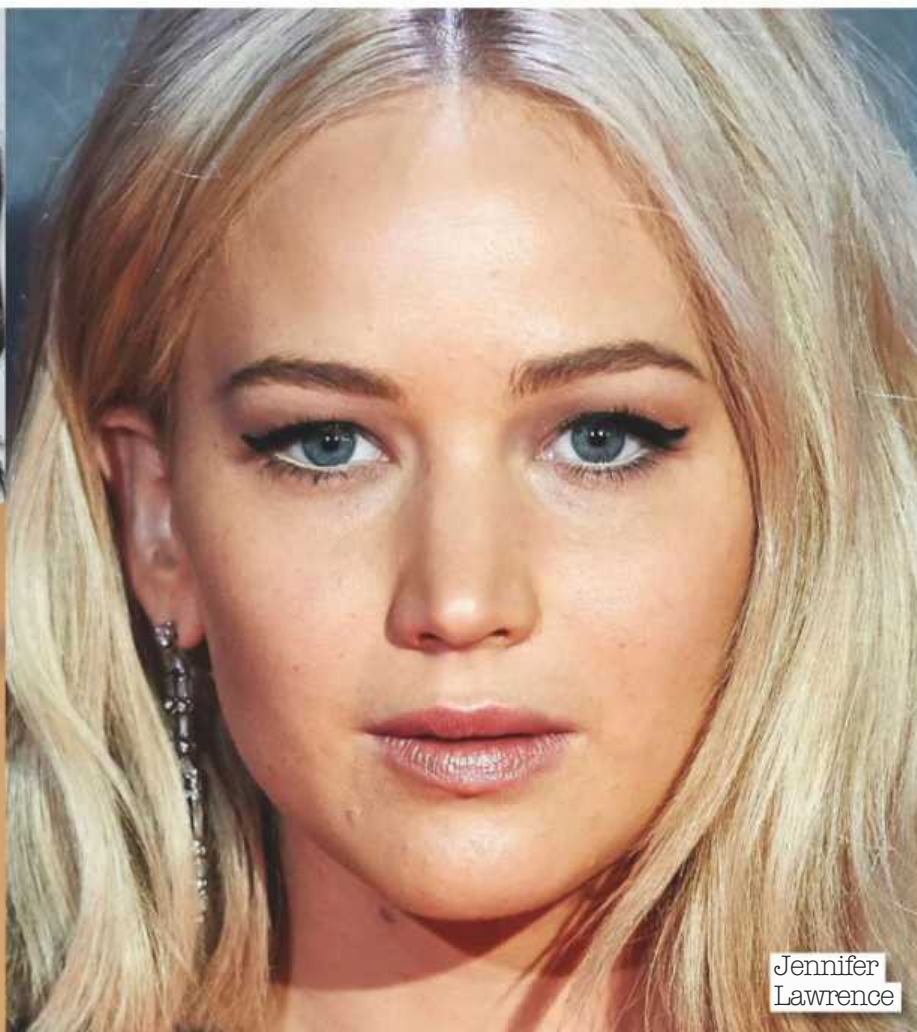

You can erase ALL evidence of a late night thanks to this new beauty trend

Selena Gomez

Heidi Klum

Jennifer Lawrence

A bottle of wine with your bestie, an impending deadline, or was it just a Netflix binge that went too far? Whatever is keeping you up all night, no one need know thanks to a new trick called light-lining.

Yep, you heard it here first – light-lining just happens to be the go-to technique for make-up artists as it's guaranteed to erase all signs of fatigue. And the best bit? It's simple to recreate.

All you need is an eyeliner (preferably lighter than your skin tone) with a metallic finish. You then trace the waterline of your eyes with the glossy-finish pencil, and not only will it neutralise any redness, but the light-reflecting formula will also make eyes appear bigger and brighter – AKA wide awake! Simply finish the rest of your eye make-up as normal, adding mascara to widen the eyes even more.

We've seen Jennifer Lawrence, Selena Gomez and Heidi Klum all embrace light-lining. If it's good enough to disguise their hectic schedules, you can bet it'll erase your all-nighter in one single swoosh.

Find Your Perfect Light-Liner...

● Fair Skin: Flatter your porcelain skin with a frosty, pearl eyeliner like this one from Urban Decay for a superior metallic hue.

Millie: 'When My Designs Sell Out, I Have To Pinch Myself'

Sexy maxis, lace minis and serious print hits – we reckon Millie Mackintosh's new drop of hot dresses is her best yet

Ask any woman what's on her shopping radar at this time of year and you'll get a resounding answer – a dreamy dress. After all, we need a hot frock or two to get us through the party season. Cue Millie Mackintosh, the Made In Chelsea veteran-turned-fashion designer, who has created the ultimate dress collection to sort your going-out woes.

From the get-go, the 26 year old has set her designs apart from other celebrity offerings, thanks to her self-confessed 'obsession' for creating clothes women love to wear – and her customers can vouch for that. After her previous range sold out, the next was picked up by ASOS, and she's given us an exclusive first look.

We caught up with the lady herself to talk date nights, her design identity and perfect party frocks...

See More Online

Check out Millie's cool fashion file at Look.co.uk/millie

Congrats on another great collection, Millie! Why just dresses this time?

I really listened to my customers – I've been getting feedback. Because it's the lead-up to Christmas, I thought: 'What do they want?' and they really want cute dresses. I didn't do an all-out Christmassy collection – it wasn't about how many sequins we could get on them. They're formal, without being over the top.

So it's sleek party dressing?

Exactly! There's a bit of embellishment. They are frocks you can dress up or down. What I love is that you can carry them all straight through until spring. It's down to how you style them – tights and boots now, and in the warmer months, a pair of sandals.

Which is your fave?

Oh, that's so hard! I love the maxi dress with the front tie – the mix of prints feels really fresh, and it's comfortable and so easy to wear. It's the full package.

OK, it's date night and you're in a rush – which frock do you choose?

It has to be the little red, off-the-shoulder number. It's basically

When you pour your heart into something, it means a lot to see it do well made for date night. That or the black maxi dress, depending on where he's taking you...

Your first collection was very successful... were you surprised?

Absolutely. I didn't know what to expect, so I was blown away by its success. Of course, I hoped it would do well. There is just so much choice out there, so when it comes to my pieces, the quality and the way the designs fit and feel are really important. That's what's going to set me apart from the rest.

What makes your designs stand out from other celebrity ranges?

It's important to have your own identity that shines through every item, so people can associate each piece with you. For me, it's all about the design – I think attention to detail is why the collection does well. That's why I believe my customers keep coming back.

How does it feel to see your collection sell out?

When you pour your heart into something, it really means a lot, so to learn how well it's doing is always amazing. When I get an email from ASOS saying something is sold out and they need more stock, that's when I really have to pinch myself.

You must get excited when you see people wearing your designs...

I love it! When someone comes up to me and says they bought something from my collection, or if I see someone wearing it on Instagram, it's the best feeling. It's incredible to see how different women style things. And when they tag me in their pictures, it makes me so, so proud.

Who is the Millie Mackintosh woman?

She's someone who likes to have fun with what she wears. She's always on the go, so she loves pieces that will have her looking stylish at a moment's notice. In a nutshell, she's a feminine free spirit.

Who or what inspires your designs?

I try to focus on who's actually buying the range. We've done a lot of research, and our customers' age averages out at 25 – which is pretty fitting, seeing as I am 26. That said, the range has proven to be a hit with 16-year-old girls as well as 40-year-old women. It really depends – I make a conscious effort to create items for every kind of woman.

What will you be wearing during the festive season this year?

For New Year's Eve, there's nothing I love more than dressing up, so I can definitely see myself wearing the long black maxi dress to ring in the bells. On Christmas Day, I'll wear a classic shift with long sleeves that I can team with tights and ankle boots – plenty of room to eat all of my Christmas dinner.

Sounds perfect! Do you recall the first dress you ever bought?

I remember begging my mum to buy me a dress from Tammy Girl; it was my first little black dress. I felt so grown up and special wearing it.

What's the most amazing dress you've ever worn?

It has to be my wedding dress – it was breathtaking and it symbolises something so special.

Shop the collection, which launches this week, at millie-mackintosh.com and ASOS.

Found! The Souped-Up Snow Boots Storming Insta

Tackle the extreme weather like a fashion pro with the seriously practical boots that have gone stellar...

From Aquazzura's tassel heels to Gucci's metallic loafers, we've lost count of all the cult status shoes that have adorned the most stylish feet of late. However, the fash pack's latest footwear fix has to be the most practical yet.

Jimmy Choo celebrated its new collab with retro 80s brand Moon Boot by whisking stylistas including Aimee Song (of Song of Style fame) to the Swiss Alps, and flooding our Insta with pics in the process. Known for its ultra-bright padded booties designed to tackle icy terrain, they're hardly the chic knee-highs we expect the fash pack to be rocking. But, thanks to a new look and luxe finishes, these sensible shoes just got way more covetable.

But if you don't have £475 to drop, Moon Boot's affordable mainline range has everything you need to nail the vibe. And now they're stocked at Net-a-porter.com and John Lewis, you know this is how the cool girls will be styling out the cold snap.

Inside Fashion's Wildest Night!

It's always a night to remember, but this year at the British Fashion Awards, the stars really let their perfectly coiffed hair down!

The red carpet was crammed as the elite came to party at the biggest night in the fashion calendar – AKA, the British Fashion Awards at the London Coliseum. But while we're used to seeing VB and co looking elegant, this was the night where just about everybody decided to let off a bit of steam.

From Jourdan Dunn celebrating her Model of the Year win by being hoisted into the air by Balmain's designer Olivier Rousteing (left), to Georgia May Jagger's LOLs with Gucci's creative director Alessandro Michele, and even Victoria Beckham joking with Karl Lagerfeld, it was a night of high jinks.

But while we enjoyed the performance from Alison Moyet (as models wearing British fashion labels paraded around her), it was Patsy and Eddie who stole the show by turning up to present Stella McCartney with her Fashion Brand of the Year award. They summed up the night for us just perfectly: absolutely fabulous, darling!

We can neither confirm nor deny that Patsy and Eddie had a glass of champers in their hand at all times, but Patsy did offer fashion advice: 'You can never have enough hats, shoes and bags'

LOVE LIVES

If They're Doing It, We've Got The Pics To Prove It!

Zizi: Hot New Couple Alert!

Zayn Malik & Gigi Hadid

The Victoria's Secret Angel and ex-1D star? Yep, it's an 'It' couple made in heaven. And Zayn, 22, and Gigi, 20, certainly haven't tried to keep their romance out of the spotlight, as they've been seen enjoying two dinner dates in LA this week. Although the world went into a spin when pictures surfaced of them giggling in the back of a taxi after Justin Bieber's AMAs after-party, the pair's connection goes further back.

According to sources, sparks flew between Zayn and Gigi when they met at Kylie Jenner's 18th birthday party in August. Nothing happened, though, as Gigi was with Joe Jonas and Zayn had just split up with fiancée Perrie Edwards. But after Gigi announced breaking up with Joe in November, she soon hooked up with Zayn – and they even spent the weekend at the Bowery Hotel in New York.

“Sparks flew at Kylie Jenner's 18th birthday party”

The First Celeb Insta-Wedding!

Sofia Vergara & Joe Manganiello

Many A-listers like to keep their nuptials under wraps – but not the fabulous Sofia, 43. The Modern Family star gave her 5.9m followers a 360° insight into the most lavish wedding of the year when she married Magic Mike XXL actor Joe, 38, in Florida. The nine-tiered cake? The Hollywood guest list? The family portraits with her 22-year-old son, Manolo, who walked her down the aisle? It's all there! Lucky Sofia was also said to have been serenaded Magic Mike-style by her new husband and his co-star Channing Tatum! Bridal envy or what?

There's nothing like a wow frock to get over a break-up...

Kate's Officially Single

Kate Beckinsale

Rocking up to the Evening Standard Theatre Awards, Kate, 42, made her own statement by taking off her wedding ring, after splitting up from husband of 11 years, Len Wiseman (he's since been seen out with 24-year-old model CJ Franco). The actress looked far from downcast, though, in a stunning gown by Alberta Ferretti. Team Kate!

'No, you request one of your songs'

Old Flames Reunited!

Jennifer Lopez & Sean Combs

Jenny From The Block and Puff Daddy just staged the best reunion ever. Yep, J-Lo and Sean, both 46, may have ended their two-year relationship in 2001, but there's no bad blood between the pair after they were spotted dancing backstage together at her AMAs after-party. Hip-hop hooray!

Mini Moss Meets Her Match?

Lottie Moss & Evan Hoyt

The model and sis of Kate, 17, was seen leaving celeb haunt Zebrano in London with Welsh tennis player Evan, 20, after they were said to have enjoyed a 'pre-date' at the opening of Winter Wonderland. 'They seemed really into one another,' an eyewitness says.

It looks like Evan enjoyed himself!

Dita

V O N T E E S E

'My Party Tip? A Glass Of Water For Every Glass Of Champagne!'

As she releases the beauty bible everyone's talking about, Dita spills her secrets and tells us why burlesque is all about girl power

I've just woken up,' purrs Dita when we speak to her. But while the queen of burlesque may be surprisingly chilled, her performances have always been hot. Since storming onto the burlesque scene at just 20 years old, Dita Von Teese has garnered global attention for her risqué shows. She famously once performed in £3.5m worth of diamonds. And off stage, her sexy signature style has charmed designers from Jean Paul Gaultier to Vivienne Westwood, who she has modelled for in the past. Her motto? The more glamorous, the better.

Dita, 43, is a serious DIY diva, too – she dyes her own hair, designs her own lingerie and does her own make-up. So you can imagine how excited the Look office was when we heard she was releasing her ultimate go-to guide to getting glam, Your Beauty Mark. We caught up with her to find out more...

Dita's performances have won her loads of celeb fans, including Katy Perry and Sofia Coppola

Congrats on your new book! Who do you think will enjoy it the most?

I think every woman can take tips from it. I've let them in on secrets I've taken from experts I've met over the years – from nutrition to fitness and fashion.

What's the number one beauty rule you've learnt over the years?

I'm all about breaking the rules!

Your make-up always looks immaculate. Do you have a high-maintenance morning routine?

I actually don't spend as much time as people think. I have a few things that I can do in five minutes, which make me feel confident. I love L'Oréal True Match powder – there's a shade that's great for my pale skin. And then finish with a splash of red lipstick.

How many red lipsticks do you own?

Oh, over 100! My current go-to is a matte pink-based red I created for MAC called Von Teese [available from 16 December] – it's great for parties. ➡

Interview Of The Week

How do you create your signature retro waves?

My hair's naturally very straight, so I set it in rollers right after I've washed it, then pin it back. For extra glam I love to add accessories like jewelled pins and silk scarves. It's fun to experiment.

And you dye your hair at home...

I love doing it myself – I have done since my early twenties. I have naturally blonde hair so every two weeks I do it at home. I'd rather that than sit in a [hairstylist's] chair for two hours.

We love your style. Where do you buy your clothes?

I shop vintage occasionally – Etsy usually has some great finds. But I often have my mind set on one thing and I go for that, like a floral white trench by [fashion editor and designer] Kim Hersov I bought recently. I'm not a recreational shopper by any means.

Do you ever slob out in your PJs with no make-up?

You'd never catch me in sweatpants!

We're not surprised. How does it feel to be a sex symbol?

I don't really think about it too much. If anything, I see myself as an alternative sex symbol, as I have so many female fans.

How much has the burlesque scene changed since you started out?

Burlesque is very different to how it was in the past – that whole 'bump and grind' striptease, which was primarily entertainment for men. Ultimately, it's about women having the choice to do what they want to do. If I do a show now, 80 per cent of the audience are women.

Who has been the best person you've performed for?

Elizabeth Taylor, about seven years ago in L.A. She was one of the last icons of glamour. She's definitely inspired me.

And the most decadent party you've been to?

I went to a beautiful party for Dior in the Palace of Versailles about five years ago. Everyone in the fashion world was there. But I like to go to bed quite early – unless I'm performing. It depends if I'm playing the part of showgirl or businesswoman.

No bad hangovers then?

Of course! But I don't think I can go into that [laughs].

How do you like to keep in shape?

I do Pilates about three times a week. I feel like I have more energy during the day if I exercise in the morning.

Do you have a nutritional plan?

I always start my day with a shot of lemon in hot water – it's great for your skin. And then for breakfast I'll usually have a bowl of oats with cinnamon. Almonds are my favourite beauty-boosting snack. I have a balanced diet – even before a big show

I never cut out meals – I love tacos with friends. Life's for living

I never cut out meals. There's nothing better than dinner out with your friends – I love tacos in L.A. Life is for living.

You've been hailed as promoting a positive body image. Have you ever felt pressure to conform to a certain shape?

Never. I don't listen to any judgement over my body, or other people's. I don't take any negativity to heart at all.

You're famous for your corset collection. How do you feel about waist trainers?

I probably have about 500 corsets in my wardrobe. I've been wearing them since I was 18, I love the look of them. But I personally don't use waist trainers. I think they're way too extreme – they shouldn't be a substitute for exercise by any means. It's a form of body modification.

What are your top tips for feeling confident at a Christmas party?

Wear something you love – the outfit I always feel amazing in is an LBD with Christian Louboutins. And drink a glass of water for every glass of champagne!

Is your life as glamorous as it seems?

No, I don't think anyone's life is as glam as it looks from the outside. We're all going through the same dramas. It can't be champagne and roses all the time.

■ Your Beauty Mark: The Ultimate Guide To Eccentric Glamour by Dita Von Teese with Rose Apodaca (£25, HarperCollins) is out 1 December

DITA'S BEAUTY Decoded

The pin-up star shares her red-carpet rules, straight from Your Beauty Mark

MAC Studio Fix Powder Plus Foundation £22

First Base...

'I like MAC Studio Fix Powder Plus Foundation,' Dita says. 'I use a small flat brush to dab it onto the corners of my nose, blemishes or anywhere else I need extra matte full coverage.'

MAC Von Teese Lipstick £17

A Bold Lip...

'Red is unequal to any other shade of lipstick,' says Dita. 'I like deep berry tones in the winter. While for the evening, it's the hot red of a racing car. Everything seems to brighten.'

Dior Diorshow New Look Mascara £25

Cat Eyes...

Black liquid liner is a must for Dita's signature flick. 'Begin the outline by pointing your chin up and your eyes looking down,' she says. 'I begin on the inside corner and look outwards.' For extra drama? 'I love Diorshow New Look Mascara.'

Essie Nail Lacquer in Fishnet Stockings £7.99

The Mani...

This 40s-style manicure is when the base of the nail is free of polish, and the rest is painted. 'My go-tos are The Spy Who Loved Me by OPI and Fishnet Stockings by Essie.'

Partytox, Anyone? The Shocking New Treatments Women Are Risking Their Looks For

With the countdown to Christmas parties underway, women are turning to extreme measures to look good – fast. Look investigates...

From reducing toes to fit into party shoes, to fillers that help earlobes carry the weight of statement earrings, a whole host of unusual surgeries have come into fashion to create the ultimate festive look.

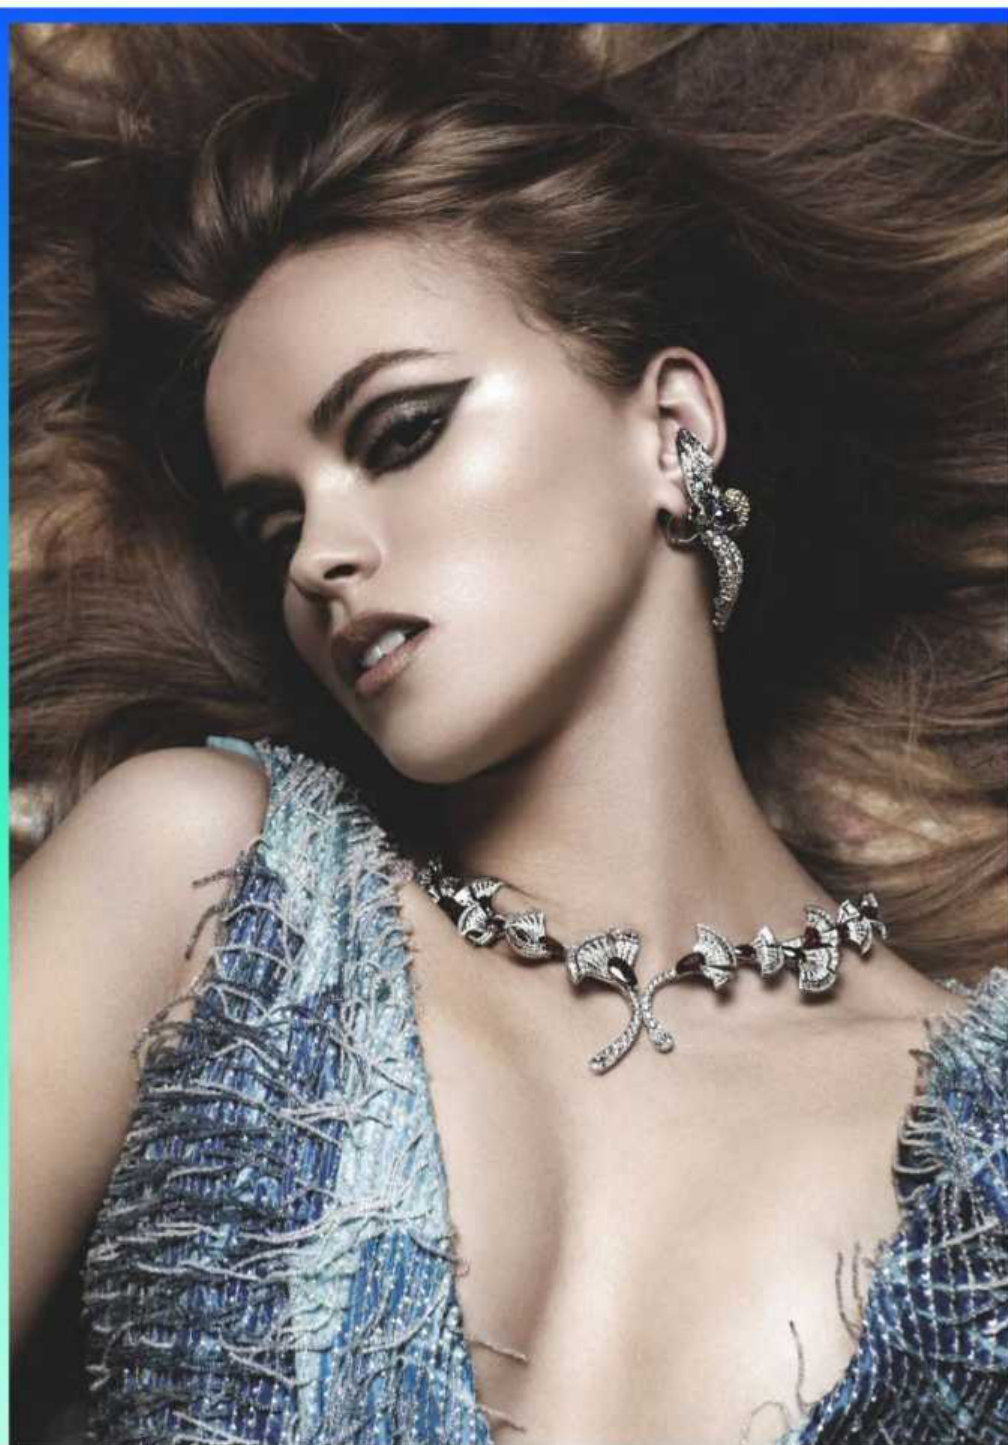

A rising number of women are having what's been dubbed as 'partytox' – quick-fix surgery before a big event that can be done in a short time. And figures are set to peak in the next few weeks as festivities get underway.

'We see a rise in injectable treatments in the run-up to the party season, as they can help patients enhance their looks,' says Mark Norfolk, clinical director at Transform.

'Quick-fix procedures are often bizarre and some have now become simply outrageous,' adds consultant plastic surgeon Paul Banwell.

1 The 3D Facelift

This procedure – akin to a skin peel – claims to give instant results. It combines diamond microdermabrasion with hyaluronic acid (the exfoliation part), followed by ultrasound that sends therapeutic shockwaves through the skin. The promise? Improved skin tone and texture, increased facial volume and glowy skin. But at £4,000 a pop, we'll stick to a facial, thanks. ➡

BOTOX INJECTIONS Have Risen By 700% Since 2000

Jody Findley, 30, a backing singer from Wolverhampton, suffered serious burns when her plan to slim down quickly backfired

'It's not like I hate my body. I'm a healthy 10st and a size 12, but I've always struggled with a bit of a muffin top. When I heard about fat freezing, I was intrigued to say the least. Luckily however, I was working in a gym at the time and they offered staff the chance to try it. As lots of people had already had it done,

“I didn't think about the risks and went ahead”

I didn't think about any of the risks and just went ahead with the procedure. While the treatment was being done, it didn't feel strange, just like someone was vacuuming my stomach. Afterwards, I felt a tingling sensation, but I just carried on at work. However, by lunchtime, I'd developed two large, painful oval blisters on my stomach. Only six hours after my session, I was in A & E being dressed for partial-thickness burns. I had to keep the bandages on for a month and visit my GP every two days to re-dress them. The wounds were agony and very uncomfortable. I've now been left with two very distinct scars on my stomach – and a daily reminder of the pain. In my case, the company were to blame, but anyone thinking of trying out a quick-fix surgery should know the risks because that 40-minute treatment has meant I'm now too conscious of my scars to ever wear a bikini again.'

2 The Lip Lift

Kylie Jenner put lips back on the beauty agenda this year – in a big way – and now women are flocking to get their pouts mistletoe ready at the hands of their surgeon. 'Some of the most popular surgeries at the end of the year are lip lifts, which shorten the distance between the upper lip and base of the nose, improving the harmony of your face,' says Dr Julian De Silva, a surgeon at London Facial Plastic Surgery. It also enhances the vermilion border [Cupid's bow], something that has been incredibly popular. However, the procedure costs £2,500, with the risk of scarring.

“Women are flocking to get their pouts mistletoe ready”

3 Fat Freezing

When it comes to slimming down for Christmas, we're fine with a pair of Spanx, but many women are booking in for 60-minute fat-freezing sessions. It works by cryolipolysis, which means fat cells are cooled to near freezing – they then crystallize, shatter and die with the waste being digested by the white blood cells in the body. While one session can make a slight difference, a course of treatments is recommended for best improvement. Many top surgeons say the trend is a fad, based on very little results. Plus, there have been cases of scarring and long-lasting damage from the procedure.

THE STATS

● Recent statistics by the FDA show that one in three people are unhappy with botulinum toxin results. And with celebs influencing us more than ever, it's no surprise that 'tweak not tuck' surgery is becoming more common – the UK cosmetic procedure industry is estimated to have risen to £3.6 billion in 2015.

● While quick-fix procedures might be convenient, they come with concerning statistics. A study found that up to one in 20 people who have 'filler' injections end up with irreversible damage to facial tissue, ranging from allergic reactions to movement of the filler.
● When questioned, 84 per cent of anti-wrinkle patients didn't know exactly what was being injected when they had a procedure.

4 Cinderella Surgery

Many women have been drawn to the aptly named Cinderella surgery – a procedure that shortens toes to improve their look or to fit into a smaller shoe size. Starting at £3,000, it's not cheap, and the 60-minute surgery, which is in high demand in Hollywood, is now widely available in the UK, too. Even though it does mean breaking and setting your toes. Ouch.

'I Reduced My Feet From A Size Eight To A Six'

Paulinka Charlikowska, a 31-year-old beautician from Blackpool, had her toes shortened last year

'My feet have been big and ugly ever since I can remember.

I often pretended they were a size seven instead of an eight, and squeezed them into smaller shoes so they'd look prettier. But that made them worse, and my toes started looking deformed. When I discovered I could have surgery to make my feet smaller, I became obsessed about wearing a pair of shoes for the Christmas parties. I researched online and got in touch with a doctor in London who was able to shorten four of my toes. It cost £4,500, but the fact that the procedure would only take an hour – 15 minutes per toe – made it even more worthwhile. Afterwards, it took about a month before I could walk normally and one toe did get infected. Now my feet are 1cm shorter and I'm a size seven, sometimes a six. I love how they look, and have a huge collection of shoes that I would, or could, never have worn before.'

5 Eartox

We've all experienced the utter relief of taking off a really big pair of earrings at the end of the night. Those beauties are heavy, and while we're all for suffering for fashion, the mega-wealthy are taking it a step further and getting surgery to help their ears cope with the weight of their diamonds. Yes, really.

Earlobe surgery has become very popular in Switzerland and is gaining momentum in the UK, too. Dr Levy, an aesthetic dermatologist and founder of Dr. Levy Switzerland Skincare has seen a rise in jewellers sending clients to him who want fillers in their earlobes so they can wear show-stopping earrings. 'For the procedure, the lobes are plumped with filler, while sometimes the jawline is given a 'Nefertiti Lift' – a Botox jab to improve the overall effect,' he says. In the UK, the average cost is from £250-£280.

A DOCTOR'S WARNING

'Often, patients take months to decide on having a procedure, but with these quick-fix treatments, they're more likely to make the decision faster as it doesn't impact so heavily on their day-to-day lives. If it sounds too good to be true, it usually is,' says Mark Norfolk. 'There are many non-surgical procedures that could be performed with ease within a lunch hour, but it's vital that patients don't trivialise these, or think that they're easy,' Paul Banwell explains. 'All clinics need to endorse the concept of patient safety, especially as we approach the Christmas period when "fast" treatments become popular.'

All offers subject to availability. Excludes N.I. & R.O.I.

The Best Girls' Night Out, Ever!

Get these dates in your diary because Sisters is the film everyone's talking about

Best friends Amy Poehler and Tina Fey are back together playing sisters who throw the party to end all parties. Sisters is the must-see movie of the season and you could get to view it before release at an exclusive screening.

Maura and Kate Ellis are devastated when their parents choose to sell their family home, and decide to say a final goodbye to it the only way they know how – by throwing a massive party and inviting all of their old school friends. However, they quickly learn that the adults they've become don't quite reflect who they were at school.

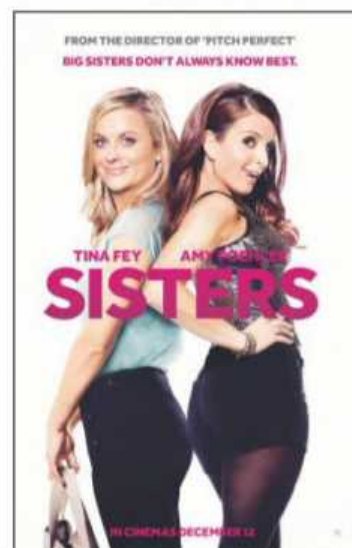

At the party, the past is all played out (in some seriously cringe-worthy scenes) and the sisters prepare to say goodbye to their old lives.

If you ever had a high-school enemy who you're not really sure why you still hate, or have a sibling who's your total opposite, then this is the film for you. Plus, did we mention it's laugh-out-loud, spit-out-your-popcorn hilarious? With these two at the helm plus the director of Pitch Perfect, we wouldn't expect anything less. Prepare for the ultimate girls' night and nab tickets for our exclusive screenings, now.

Screenings take place at selected cinemas on Thursday 10 December. To reserve your ticket, visit Showfilmfirst.com and enter code 963780.

■ Sisters is in cinemas from 12 Dec

Zara's Suit & Whinnie's Dress

If there's one duo to be taking style cues from, it's Zara Martin and DJ Whinnie Williams (formerly known as Sunday Girl). Zara makes a great case for the co-ord, while Whinnie's lace-up frock makes for the perfect office-to-party purchase.

Whinnie's Styling Tips

- 1 Add a waist-cinching, tan suede belt to highlight your silhouette and accentuate the skater fit.
- 2 Give it a rocky spin with a biker jacket and black patent ankle boots.
- 3 Let the lace detail do the talking and keep jewellery to a minimum.

It's Party Time!

Your One-Stop Dress Destination

Whatever your shape, size or occasion, Simply Be has something for every woman this Christmas

With party season fast approaching, finding the perfect frock has never been more important. And with that comes a pretty hefty checklist: it's got to be a serious statement-maker, highlight your figure, be comfortable enough to dance the night away in, and often make for a stylish office-to-bar transition.

“The range has landed just in time – and we're in love”

The solution? Simply Be's brand new party collection. Yep, the range has landed just in time to solve all your festive fashion woes, and we couldn't be more in love.

From long-sleeved bodycons to fringed midis and classic sequin designs, the line comes chock-full of enough glitz and glam to see you through the season. Above all, it's the could-be-catwalk looks that have got us all excited. Take the beaded fringed number (right) – following the lead of designers such as Gucci, Emilio Pucci and Proenza Schouler, we can hardly believe it's high street. On top of that, the collection houses a whole host of all-over high-shine embellished pieces that give 'Sequin King' Ashish a run for his money.

Cute skater skirts, trend-ticking jumpsuits and flawless two-pieces are there if frocks aren't your thing, too. Turn heads in a super-sparkly one-piece, paired with your choice of cover-up, including faux-fur coats, lace wraps and sequinned capes. The sizes range from 12-32, so there really is something for everyone. Go on, steal the show.

A-LIST-ESQUE CLUTCH

When it comes to party bags, they don't come much more statement than this monochrome ostrich clutch. Sure, Emma Roberts' Kotur lovely may have set her back a cool £550, but we'll be channelling the look with this Coast doppelgänger.

LOEWE

Steal Olivia's Neck Candy

The easiest way to get through all those desk-to-bar jaunts is to invest in a killer necklace that you can don at a moment's notice. Instead of the usual jewel clusters, we're taking style tips from Ms Palermo and snapping up her exact £45 wonder choker, complete with a raw crystal drop. Work it with an off-the-shoulder top just like the fashionista herself for a subtly sexy vibe.

80s LAMÉ IS BACK

Nothing gets us in the party mood quite like metallics, and this season we're tapping into the 80s for major dancefloor inspo. First clocked on the Loewe catwalk, lamé staples are big news on the high street, too. Look to Topshop and Marks & Spencer for the best pieces out there.

Sorry, black – now it's all about the little blue dress. Cobalt frocks dominated the catwalk this season, and it hasn't taken long for the A-list to get in on the action. Whether you're a maxi, mini or midi kind of woman, you're guaranteed to find one that's tailor-made to suit your shape.

Chiara Ferragni

Dior's Cult Sequin Polo

Every street stylist worth her salt has been rocking Dior's now-iconic sequin roll-neck of late, and now this brilliant designer dupe has hit the high street.

H&M
£29.99

● H&M's silver number nails blogger Chiara Ferragni's high-shine Dior look and it'll look just as sleek paired with trousers and a shirt.

● Once party season's done and dusted, give your sequin polo a daytime overhaul by working it with vintage-wash jeans and stacked loafers.

MEGA TASSEL EARRINGS

The style set are forgoing classic chandelier earrings in favour of collarbone-grazing tassels. Any colour or embellishment goes, but if they don't skim your shoulders, it ain't happening...

● Sweep your hair up into a sleek ponytail or bun for maximum tassel impact.

● Wear with an off-the-shoulder dress for a match made in party style heaven.

● Use them to instantly dress up a sheer blouse and pencil skirt combo for an office soir e.

VELVET COVER-UPS

It's taken over dresses, trousers and tops, and now velvet – winter's unrivalled 'It' texture – is cropping up on cover-ups, too.

- Jewel tones up the luxe vibe, but there are lots of black styles as well.
- Formerly reserved for smoking jackets, sharp blazers, kimonos and quilted numbers are now being given the velvet treatment.
- Pair with lashings of leather for a rich texture clash.

What To Wear To A Winter

Coloured Lace

Nothing says 'wedding' like lace. However, ensure you steer clear of cream or white (you don't want to outshine the bride) and instead opt for a dress in on-trend berry tones like this Warehouse number. A belted blazer or long-line duster coat will help give it a grown-up feel.

10 HACKS
YOU NEED
TO KNOW

Party Beauty

From the eye-bag blitzer to the nail art you can do at your desk,

1. TRY AN EYESHADOW TOPCOAT

Take your favourite shadow up a notch by dusting on a topcoat. These sheer shadows have no base colour, but instead pack a punch of sparkly pigment, so you can pat them over any colour to amp it up.

MAC Dazzleshadow in I Like 2 Watch, £16, will totally transform brown based shadows.

Topshop Mono Eyeshadow in Hallucination, £7, gives a holographic glaze perfect for poshing up grey smoky palettes.

ASHLEY WILLIAMS

2. INVEST IN A BLURRING POWDER

Cocktails + dancing = super-shiny skin. Avoid cakey powders and make sure your clutch contains Temple Spa Velvelutto Face Base, £30. Created with smart technology that mimics healthy-looking skin, buff on the velvety formula to mattify, blur pores and leave skin looking seamless.

THE TWO-TONE BLUSH TIP

Monotone blusher can end up looking a little flat, so go for a two-tone formula that'll enhance cheeks by adding an extra dimension.

Kiko Moon Dust Face Powder in Mysterious Pink, £13.90, has golden pink marbled with a darker mauve. Just sweep over cheeks to make them pop.

4 NAIL ART YOU CAN DO AT YOUR DESK

Who needs to book in for a pro mani when you can use the MoYou London Holy Shapes Starter Kit, £12.99? They take all the effort out of nail art with their amazing stamp-on designs. Cheat intricate looks in a second – trust us, no one will guess it's a DIY mani.

GIORGIO ARMANI

5. MAKE YOUR EYES LOOK BIGGER WITH CUT-CREASING

This clever make-up artist trick works by adding a line of dark shadow above your eye crease to make them look bigger.

Becca Ombre Nudes Eye Palette, £34, has every shade to sharpen up your lids.

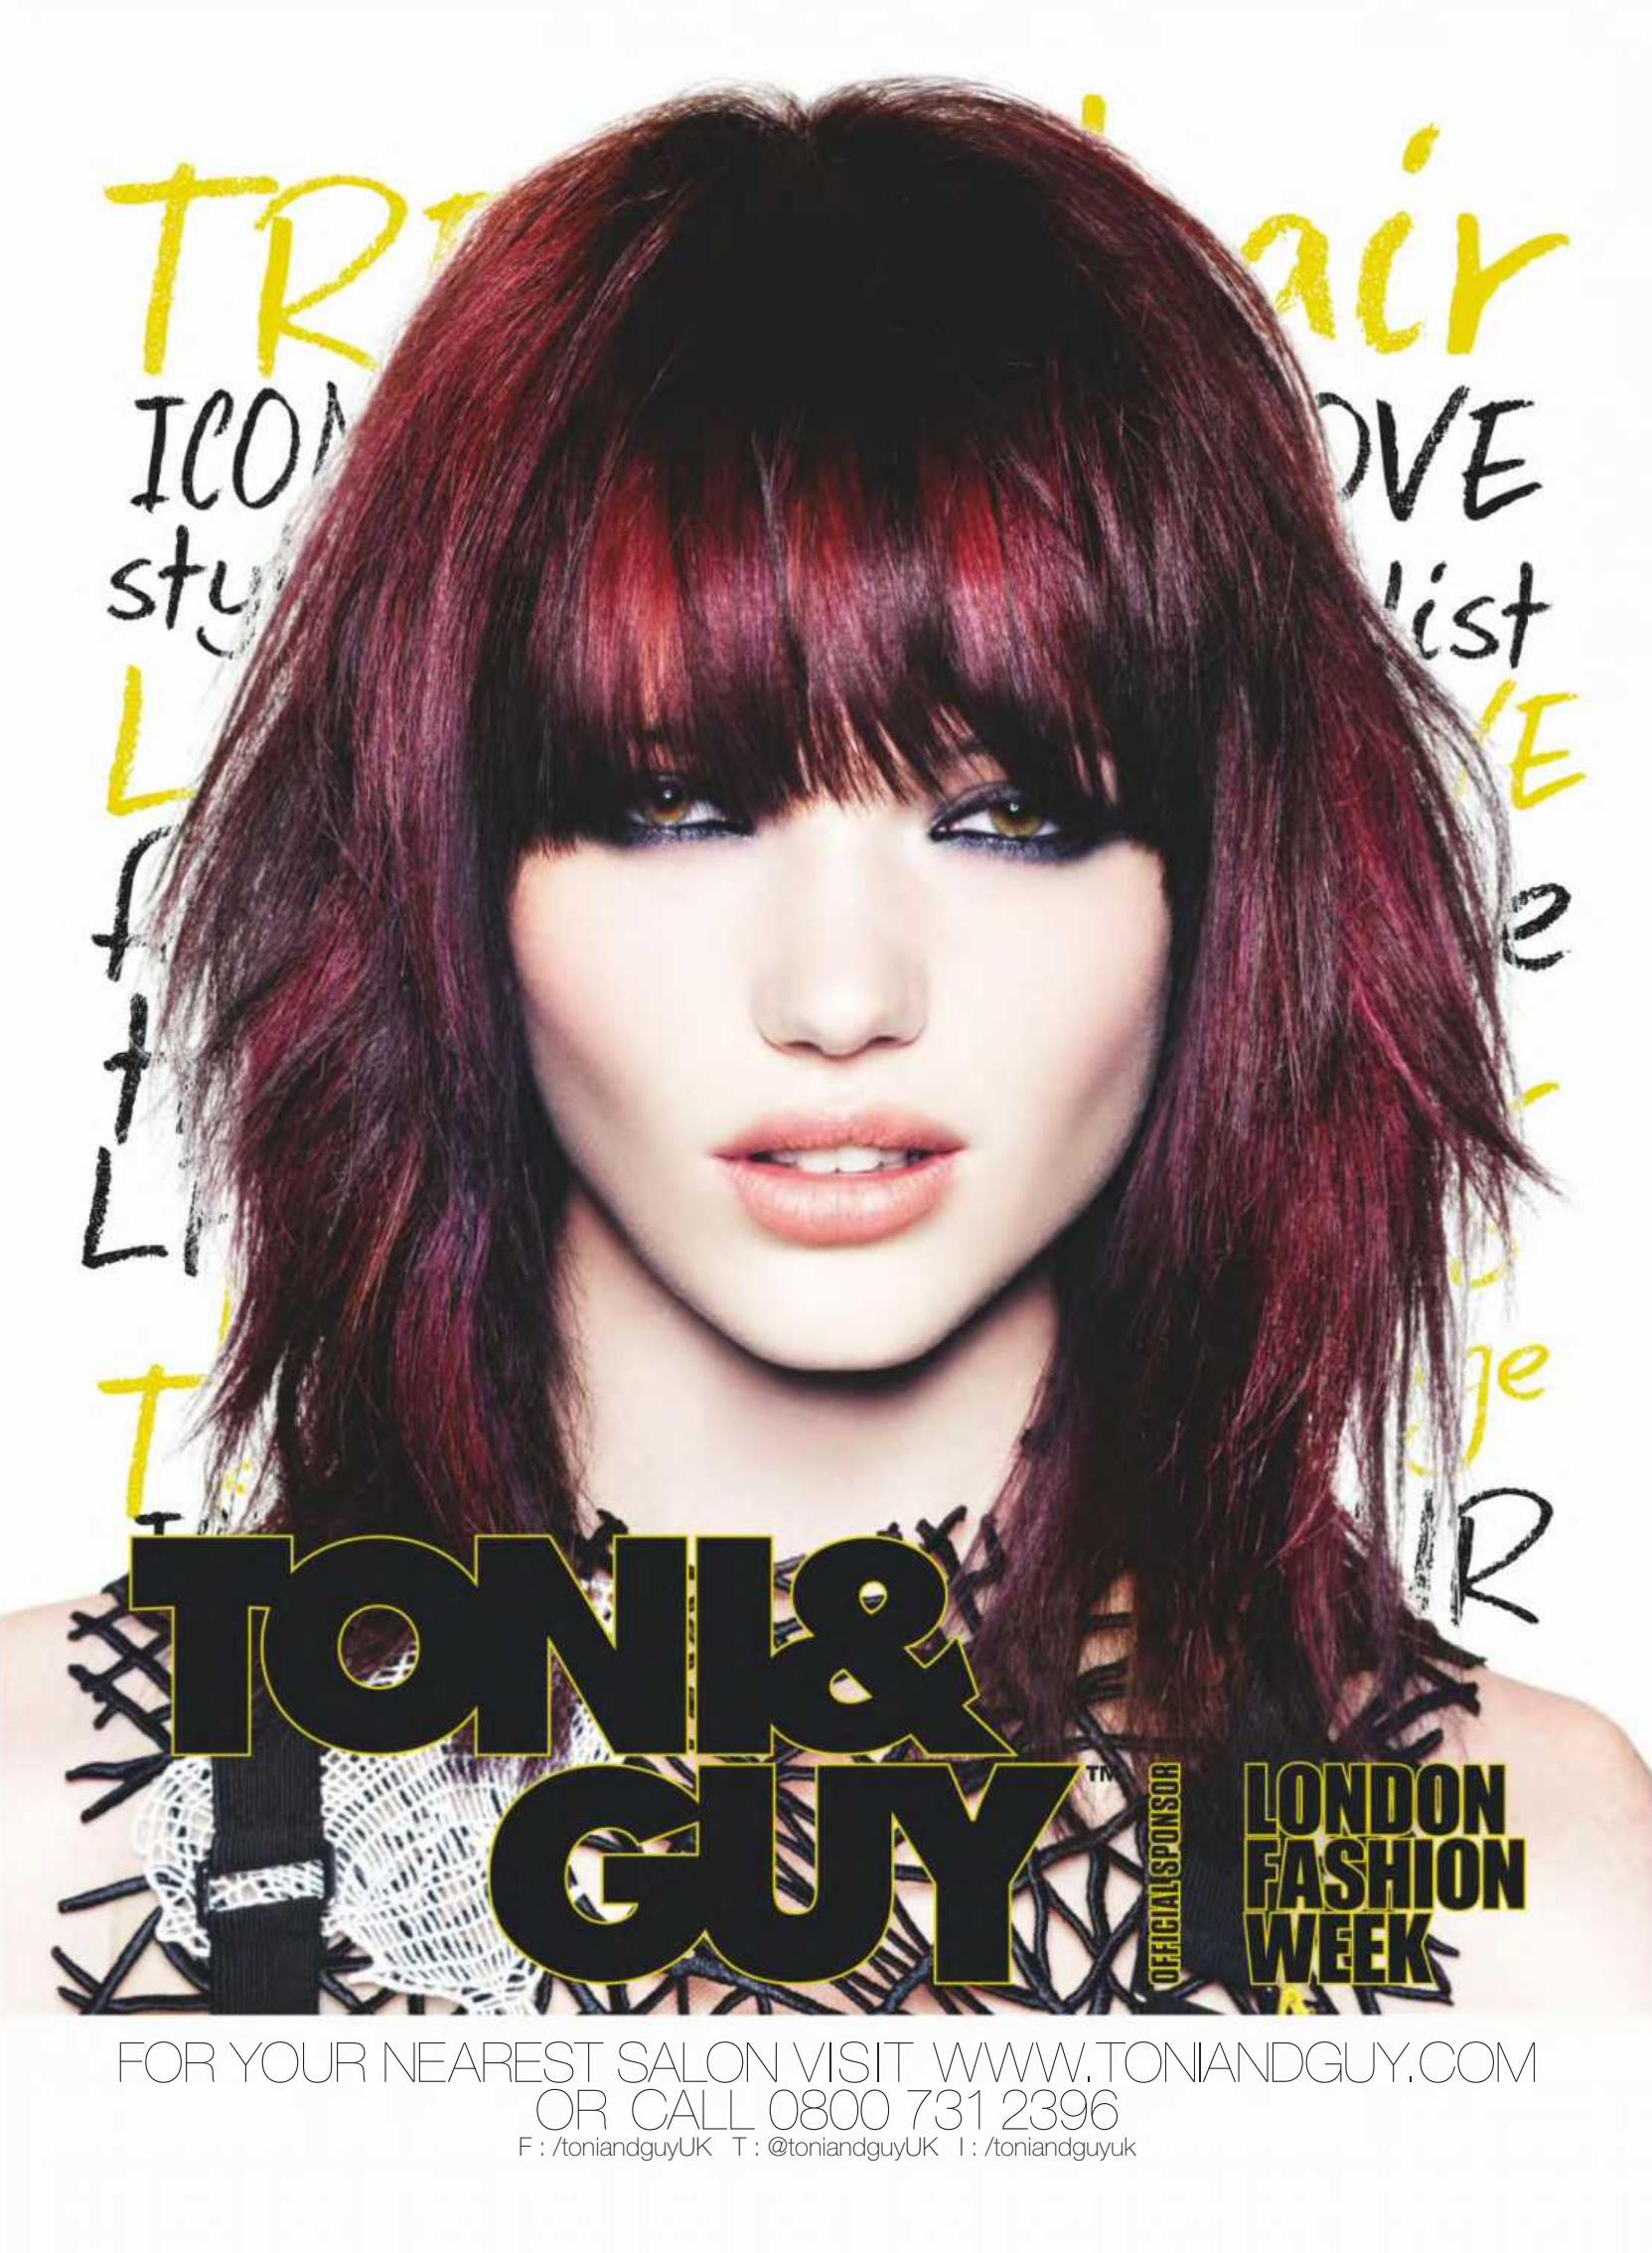

STEP ONE: Swipe a light, matte shade over the eyelid for a wash of colour as a base.

STEP TWO: Use a medium to dark shade to draw a line just above your socket.

STEP THREE: Blend the shadow up towards your brow, keeping the line as sharp as possible.

7. GET CLEVER WITH HAIRSPRAY

FIGHT THE FLYAWAYS: Use an old toothbrush spritzed with hairspray to tame frizzy baby hairs. Our favourite fuzz-busting formula is Blow LTD #10minuteblow Party-Proof Hairspray, £10.

ERMANNO SCERVINO

HAIRSPRAY LAYERING

If your locks are prone to frizz attacks, don't just mist it over the top of your 'do, as the hair underneath will be the first to flare up. Instead, section your hair off, layer by layer, and coat each one with hairspray. That way your locks will stay sleek from am to pm.

8. FIX - IT FACE MASKS

Your skin is playing up, but there's no time to seek an expert facialist. Don't panic – you can DIY complexion perfection in minutes with one of these magic masks.

Breakout Buster: Una Brennan Super Facialist Salicylic Acid Anti Blemish Clay Mask, £9.99, will soak up excess oil on the skin, leaving you blemish-free.

Glow Reviver: The brightening ginseng and healing jojoba in Pixi Glow Mud Mask, £18, will perk up dull, dreary skin in a flash.

Instant Calmer: Tata Harper Resurfacing Mask, £44, contains willow extract to relieve redness and witch hazel to neutralise inflammation.

Dry Skin Saver: Combat a thirsty complexion with Voya Hydra Veil, £32. This melts into skin, leaving it hydrated, plumped and well nourished.

9. EYE BAG BLITZER

Don't let dark circles rain on your party parade – no one need know about those late nights with Avène PhysioLift Eyes, £22. It visibly reduces dark circles by 52 per cent*, while fading fine lines and de-puffing.

10 MAKE YOUR PERFUME LAST LONGER

You apply your fave scent before you go out, but then find it's faded by the time you reach the bar. Sound familiar? Here are the spots you need to spritz...

● Down Your Back:

It may sound a little odd, but this will ensure you leave a trail of scent wherever you go, as any heat on your back will strengthen the scent.

● Pulse Points:

These spots – wrists, behind your ears, inside elbows and behind your knees – also generate heat, so will intensify your perfume.

● Hair: Your locks are porous, so they'll soak up scent better than skin. Spray your hairbrush with Kérastase Chronologiste Le Parfum En Huile Oil, £39 – it's scented with rose and musk.

Flatten Your Tum Overnight

Christmas bash tomorrow, but not feeling in the best shape? We've got the fail-safe secrets to help you de-bloat in just one day

Ah, December. 'Tis the season for the inevitable slew of festive parties. You've bought the outfit and a bottle of fizz, but you're just not feeling confident in that killer new dress. We've all been there. To give you a helping hand, Look got the lowdown from Dr Michelle Storfer, top nutritionist and founder of Thefoodeffect.co.uk, to help you banish the bloat in just 24 hours...

The Day Before The Party

7.15AM... THE MORNING FIX
Miranda Kerr swears by dandelion tea first thing to wake up her digestive system. 'I decided to drink dandelion, as opposed to coffee, as it actually tastes quite similar,' she says. 'It's a natural diuretic,' adds Dr Storfer. 'It helps to shift water and reduce bloating.' Drink two to three cups the day before to flush out excess toxins.

12.30PM... TRY FERMENTED FOODS
Loaded with enzymes that actively break down food in your stomach, fermented dishes like sauerkraut are best eaten the day before. Give fermented kohlrabi (a type of cabbage) a try – it's rich in potassium to help regulate fluid levels. Move over, kale!

7PM... NOTHING RAW AFTER 4(PM)
The night before, avoid munching on uncooked foods – even carrots and cucumber. 'Raw veg is hard to break down, which can lead to stomach pain and bloating,' says Dr Storfer. 'Steam, sauté or roast after 4pm for easier digestion.' Team with a lean protein, such as salmon, and add garlic or ginger to flavour.

The Day Of The Party

10AM... JUICE IT UP
Pineapple is the ultimate superfood to beat the bloat. 'It contains an enzyme called bromelain,' says Dr Storfer. 'This helps to boost metabolism and burn fat quickly. Aim to consume at least a quarter of a pineapple to see the full benefits.' For speed, try it in a juice.

2PM... CARBS ARE NOT THE ENEMY
To line your stomach on the day of the party, eat 'good carbs' at lunch for slow-release energy. 'Wholegrains help reduce cortisol levels, often associated with belly fat,' says Dr Storfer. 'Cutting carbs slows down metabolism, so your body holds onto more fat.' Try an artichoke and tomato salad with brown rice.

3.30PM... SNACK WISELY
'Almonds are little superheroes when it comes to burning fat, as they contain easily digestible carbs,' says Dr Storfer. 'Eating small, healthy snacks between meals will help keep your blood sugar stable and your metabolism going strong.' Now, get ready to party!

Britain's Next Top Model Exclusive:

Meet The New GIRLS!

THE MUST-WATCH SHOW RETURNS TO LIFETIME, WITH A SET OF NEWBIES VYING FOR THE BNTM CROWN

1 Jessica Workman

Jess, 20, has been taking amateur modelling jobs since she was 15 and says her fave model is Gisele Bündchen. Maybe Jess can take her place?

2 Jasmine Hodge

Southampton-born Jasmine, 18, is studying to be a journalist and has previously won Miss Hampshire Eco Queen.

3 Megan Brunell

Fashion design student Megan, 20, has dealt with family tragedy in her past but has used modelling as part of the healing process.

4 Jenna McMahon

The scouser, 19, is a musical theatre student, so expect her to bring the jazz hands.

5 Lexi Kelly

Lexi, 19, is a loudmouth who loves the gym – we hear she's very, very determined.

6 Hayley Dunne

A waitress when she's not studying English, Hayley, 20, lives in Ireland and describes herself as 'bubbly and talkative'.

7 Bethan Sowerby

Bethan, 19, has plans to be the Brit Gigi Hadid. We think it's possible.

8 Angel Cole

Having been bullied about her sexuality, Angel, 19, wants to be the first openly gay model on the show, paving the way for others.

9 Amreen Akhtar

Amreen, 22, works full-time in H&M but has ambitions of both modelling and being the next big fashion designer.

10 Charlotte Roffey

A fitness fanatic, Charlotte, 21, is from the New Forest in Hampshire, and runs her own nutrition business.

11 Georgia Butler

Georgia, 19, got through to the final ten of a modelling comp before – this time she's ready to go all the way.

12 Jade Rogers
Jade, 23, will give her family a shock – she hasn't told them she's on the show!

13 Alex Needham
She was kicked out of school and her family home at 15 but now, aged 21, has turned her life around.

14 Chloe Keenan
If it gets quiet,

Chloe, 22, can entertain the other girls with a spot of opera singing.

15 Billie Downes
Billie, 20, cites her favourite designers as Karl Lagerfeld and Victoria Beckham, and dreams of walking for them one day.

ADOPTION

ADOPT HIM TODAY. OR LOSE HIM FOREVER.

Will you help the snow leopard claw its way back from the brink?

Snow leopards have survived in the Himalayas for thousands of years. But right now, there are as few as 300 left in Nepal. The harsh reality is that they're being hunted by poachers for their bones and precious fur – and they urgently need your help if they are to live on.

By adopting a snow leopard today, you'll help protect this endangered big cat for future generations.

Your present. Their future.

For as little as £3 a month, you or your loved one will receive an adoption pack, an adorable cuddly toy and regular updates from people on the ground working tirelessly to help save the beautiful snow leopard.

What's more, you'll have the satisfaction of knowing you're helping us to train and equip courageous anti-poaching rangers. And you'll discover what it takes – and how it feels – to help save a species.

The purrrfect gift!

Gigi's One-Night Bob

The Look office was shocked to spot Gigi Hadid with a bob at the AMAs. But it turns out the cut wasn't real. 'There are tricks of the trade,' Gigi said. 'Check tomorrow to see if I still have short hair.' Turns out her hairstylist, Bryce Scarlett, created a wig that he blended in with her short front layers. Clever!

K-Stew's Chanel-Over

She's been a vampire and a rock star, but Kristen Stewart's latest role has to be her most stylish yet. Slipping into a bouclé suit and adorning herself with a string of pearls, she portrays Coco Chanel in the short film, Once And Forever, which has been directed by Karl Lagerfeld and will debut at Chanel's Métiers d'Art show in Rome on 1 December. Probably the chicest thing you'll watch this year.
